TAKEN IN.

Yesterday one of the North Carolina excursionists made some inquirles about points of interest of a negro man who makes King street his headquarters. The negro offered to show him around. The offer was accepted, and the two started out together. The gentleman after seeing all that was to be seen left his new found friend, and to his great surprise soon afterwards found that he had been robbed of a watch and chain that he valued at $150. The police were given a description of the thief, and think that they know who he is.

THE OUTLOOK DISCOURAGING.
The truckers are looking blue over the prospect of this season. Potatoes, their man crop, are selling from $1.25 to $1.59 per barrel, and hard to sell at that price. A prominent trucker said yesterday that his report received A100d plos pur 110ys ind didn's $2500 barrels received in New York, and that the market was glutted. Cabcucumbers are the only thing that is bringing any price at all.

The outlook, he thought, was discouraging, and that but few truckers would make enough to pay for the guano that they used.

COOLER WEATHER PREDICTED. COOLER WEATHER PREDICTED.
The thermometer at the navy-yard gate, generally accepted as a criterion in Portsmouth, registered 89 degrees yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, as against 91 degrees at the same hour the day before. A difference of two degrees ordinarily would not be noticeable, but in this instance humidity cut a figure, and made the temperature yesterday seem much cooler than Wednesday. A steady breeze further tempered the heat in the afternoon and made life worth living.

The weather prediction for to-day is for showers and cooler weather.
